

One sunny monday at School my theacher exclaimed that we were going on an adventure! He didn't tell the students and I where or when. Everybody was realy excidid. Mr. , our teacher, took us to the technowloge center, but I have never see our labrotory like this!

Wow, the school realy updated the equitment. They had computers that we sat at that looked like those hairdryers at the hair saylon. The only thing diffrent is these went over my eyes.

"Now class," said Mr. thats what he says when he wants our to be silent. "Sit in your seets,". We put on the thing that looked like the haidryer. I put it on, and it stated talking. It said "Image some were to go". I imaged that I was playing football. Boom, I hit the ground.

Now a bounch of football players were coming at me. Oregely we lost the game. I took off

Score Point: 4

This response reflects proficiency in narrative writing. The response is adequately organized and includes transitional phrases to move the reader through the narrative. The writer displays adequate facility in language use. The few convention errors do not impede communication. Although there is some illustration of key ideas (they had computers that we sat at that looked like those hair dryers at the hair salon), further development would be required for a higher score.
